

Artistic Images Decorative Wall Paneling

Care & Maintenance

Our Artistic Images Decorative Wall Panels are the most resilient prints in the world and can be hung outdoors due to their rust resistant properties, in high moisture environments such as bathrooms, spas, and kitchens. Just a small amount of upkeep is required for keeping your prints looking their best for many years.

Cleaning

Most of the time, the only thing you will need to clean your Artistic Images panel is a basic microfiber cloth that can be purchased at your local grocery or hardware store. A simple wipe will remove most dust and fingerprints. Do Not use anything that is abrasive such as paper towels to clean your prints as they can cause tiny scratches. For more stubborn stains, a little bit of denatured alcohol which can be purchased at most hardware stores, acetone or goo gone applied to a microfiber cloth will do the job. Over time, prints can collect dust so it is a good idea to wipe down your prints about once a month to keep them looking their absolute best

Transporting and shipping

It is very important that Artistic Images Panels are properly protected during transport to reduce the possibility of damage. We recommend to wrap each print individually in plastic and then securing to an oversized piece of cardboard or wood. This will protect the corners and edges from getting dinged and chipped. When transporting multiple prints at once, do not stack the prints too high and always stack them either face to face or back to back as the backing of the prints can do damage to the front. When picking up more than 5 prints, make sure you bring extra blankets or towels to help secure them in place and to prevent them from moving around.

Shipping of Metal Prints should only be done by a professional or a company that has experience shipping fine art prints. Metal prints require much more protection than canvas or paper prints. Sizes larger than 20" x 30" should be wood crated. Prints larger than 40x60 will need to be freight shipped. Shipping to a residential address will cost a little bit more than to a commercial address. Be sure to take pictures of the package interior and exterior upon receipt and immediately report any damages to Artistic Images.
